Text 1: A turtle has a hard shell that covers its back. The shell protects the turtle from animals that might bite. When danger comes, a turtle pulls its head and legs inside.

Text 2: The sun warms water in lakes and oceans. The warm water rises into the air as vapor. High in the sky, the vapor cools and forms clouds. Later, rain falls back to the ground.

Text 3: Soccer is played by two teams. Players kick a ball and try to score in a net. They can use feet, knees, and heads, but not hands. The team with more goals wins.

Text 4: A volcano is an opening in the Earth. Hot melted rock, called lava, can flow out of it. When the lava cools, it becomes hard rock. Over many years, this rock can build a tall mountain.
