The Wind and the Sun

The North Wind and the Sun argued about who was stronger. Then a traveler walked by in a thick coat. "Let us see who can make him take it off," said the Sun.

The Wind blew hard and cold. The traveler only held his coat tighter. Then the Sun shone warm and gentle. The traveler grew hot, and he took his coat off. The Sun had won without any push at all.

1. What is the message of this fable?

   Being gentle can work better than force.

   Strong winds are better than warm days.

   The loudest voice will always be the winner.

2. Why did the traveler hold his coat tighter?

   The wind was blowing hard and cold.

   He thought the coat was getting wet.

   He was afraid the Sun would take it.

3. Which action of the Sun shows the lesson?

   The Sun asked the Wind to blow.

   The Sun hid behind a big dark cloud.

   The Sun shone warm and gentle.

4. What happened after the Sun shone on the traveler?

   He ran away to look for the cold Wind.

   He put on a second, warmer winter coat.

   He grew hot and took his coat off.
