The Windy Kite Contest

The town of Lakeside holds a kite contest every spring on Sandy Hill. This year, twelve children entered. Judges looked at how high each kite flew and how bright its colors were. Tomás built his kite from yellow paper and two thin sticks, and he tied a long ribbon tail to keep it steady. When a strong gust pushed his kite sideways, the tail kept it from spinning. Although a girl named Kim flew higher, the judges gave Tomás a prize for the most creative design. He hung the blue ribbon on his bedroom wall.
