The Class Garden

Every Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Ortiz's class works in the school garden behind the gym. In April, the students planted bean seeds in a long wooden box. Maya watered the box each morning with a small blue can. After two weeks, tiny green sprouts pushed up through the soil. The class was excited because beans grow fast. Luis built a little fence from sticks so that rabbits would not nibble the new leaves. By June, the plants were tall enough to climb a string trellis.
