Three Branches of Government

Grade 4 Social Studies Worksheet - Challenge Me

Name _____ Date _____

Circle the answer.

1. Which example shows the judicial branch checking another branch?

   The Senate rejects a judge the President chose.

   Congress votes on the national budget.

   The President vetoes a bill from Congress.

   A court rules that a law breaks the Constitution.

2. The House of Representatives votes to charge a President with serious wrongdoing. What is this called?

   impeachment an override a veto a pardon

3. A governor vetoes a bill. What can the state legislature usually do next?

   make it a law with no new vote

   vote again to override the veto

   send the bill to the President

   ask the state supreme court to sign it

4. Suppose one branch could make, enforce, and judge every law. What problem could happen?

   There would be too many courts.

   No one could stop it from being unfair.

   Laws would take much longer to pass.

   Citizens would have to vote more often.

5. Congress passes a bill, and the President vetoes it. Then two-thirds of both houses vote for it again. What happens?

   The President vetoes it a second time.

   The Supreme Court must sign the bill.

   The bill becomes a law.

   The bill waits until the next election.

Scan to get this marked free. No screen time for your child.
Print it · do it in pencil · scan it · PencilGo picks the next sheet.

Three Branches of Government

Answer Key - Grade 4 Social Studies Worksheet - Challenge Me

Circle the answer.

1. Which example shows the judicial branch checking another branch?

   The Senate rejects a judge the President chose.

   Congress votes on the national budget.

   The President vetoes a bill from Congress.

   A court rules that a law breaks the Constitution.

2. The House of Representatives votes to charge a President with serious wrongdoing. What is this called?

   impeachment an override a veto a pardon

3. A governor vetoes a bill. What can the state legislature usually do next?

   make it a law with no new vote

   vote again to override the veto

   send the bill to the President

   ask the state supreme court to sign it

4. Suppose one branch could make, enforce, and judge every law. What problem could happen?

   There would be too many courts.

   No one could stop it from being unfair.

   Laws would take much longer to pass.

   Citizens would have to vote more often.

5. Congress passes a bill, and the President vetoes it. Then two-thirds of both houses vote for it again. What happens?

   The President vetoes it a second time.

   The Supreme Court must sign the bill.

   The bill becomes a law.

   The bill waits until the next election.