Fact and Opinion

Grade 4 Reading Worksheet

Name _____ Date _____

Read the text. Circle the sentence that is a fact.

READ THIS FIRST

Write It by Hand

Most of my friends send messages on tablets, and my class uses tablets for reading and math, too. I think kids should also write letters by hand. Handwritten letters help us remember, they help us slow down, and they mean more to the people who get them.

My first reason is memory. In one study, college students took notes in two ways. Some typed on laptops, and some wrote with pens. Later, the students who wrote by hand understood the ideas better. Many of the students who typed had copied the speaker's words exactly, without thinking about what they meant. Writing each word takes longer, so the brain has more time to think about it.

My second reason is that writing by hand helps us slow down. When I text, I sometimes send a message before I check it. Last month, I texted my friend the wrong time for a soccer game, and she arrived an hour early. A letter takes time. You choose your words, fix mistakes and read it over before you mail it. That makes letters more thoughtful than quick texts.

My third reason is that letters are special to the people who get them. Last spring, I wrote to my grandmother in Manila. She keeps my letter in a box with her favorite photos. She told me she reads it whenever she misses me. A text message would be hard to keep in a box!

Some people say handwriting is old-fashioned. It is true that most work today happens on screens. But we still sign our names, fill out forms and write birthday cards. Many scientists and artists still sketch their ideas on paper first. Also, a letter is a gift you can hold.

I believe every class should have a letter-writing day once a month. Students could write to grandparents, pen pals or favorite authors. Some authors even write back. Pens and paper cost very little, and the smiles they bring are priceless.

1.

The smiles they bring are priceless.

Last spring, I wrote to my grandmother in Manila.

Also, a letter is a gift you can hold.

That makes letters more thoughtful than quick texts.

2. I believe every class should have a letter-writing day once a month.
I think kids should also write letters by hand.
In one study, college students took notes in two ways.
The smiles they bring are priceless.

3. That makes letters more thoughtful than quick texts.
I think kids should also write letters by hand.
Later, the students who wrote by hand understood the ideas better.
The smiles they bring are priceless.

4. That makes letters more thoughtful than quick texts.
I believe every class should have a letter-writing day once a month.
The smiles they bring are priceless.
She keeps my letter in a box with her favorite photos.

Scan to get this marked free. No screen time for your child.
Print it · do it in pencil · scan it · PencilGo picks the next sheet.

Fact and Opinion

Answer Key - Grade 4 Reading Worksheet

Read the text. Circle the sentence that is a fact.

READ THIS FIRST

Write It by Hand

Most of my friends send messages on tablets, and my class uses tablets for reading and math, too. I think kids should also write letters by hand. Handwritten letters help us remember, they help us slow down, and they mean more to the people who get them.

My first reason is memory. In one study, college students took notes in two ways. Some typed on laptops, and some wrote with pens. Later, the students who wrote by hand understood the ideas better. Many of the students who typed had copied the speaker's words exactly, without thinking about what they meant. Writing each word takes longer, so the brain has more time to think about it.

My second reason is that writing by hand helps us slow down. When I text, I sometimes send a message before I check it. Last month, I texted my friend the wrong time for a soccer game, and she arrived an hour early. A letter takes time. You choose your words, fix mistakes and read it over before you mail it. That makes letters more thoughtful than quick texts.

My third reason is that letters are special to the people who get them. Last spring, I wrote to my grandmother in Manila. She keeps my letter in a box with her favorite photos. She told me she reads it whenever she misses me. A text message would be hard to keep in a box!

Some people say handwriting is old-fashioned. It is true that most work today happens on screens. But we still sign our names, fill out forms and write birthday cards. Many scientists and artists still sketch their ideas on paper first. Also, a letter is a gift you can hold.

I believe every class should have a letter-writing day once a month. Students could write to grandparents, pen pals or favorite authors. Some authors even write back. Pens and paper cost very little, and the smiles they bring are priceless.

1. The smiles they bring are priceless.

   Last spring, I wrote to my grandmother in Manila.

   Also, a letter is a gift you can hold.

   That makes letters more thoughtful than quick texts.

2. I believe every class should have a letter-writing day once a month.

I think kids should also write letters by hand.

In one study, college students took notes in two ways.

The smiles they bring are priceless.

3. That makes letters more thoughtful than quick texts.

I think kids should also write letters by hand.

Later, the students who wrote by hand understood the ideas better.

The smiles they bring are priceless.

4. That makes letters more thoughtful than quick texts.

I believe every class should have a letter-writing day once a month.

The smiles they bring are priceless.

She keeps my letter in a box with her favorite photos.