Name _____ Date _____

Read each report plan. Circle the note that goes under the heading named.

1. Lena's report has two headings: "Moon Phases" and "Moon Missions." Which note goes under "Moon Phases"?

   The Moon looks like a thin crescent, then a half circle, then a full circle.

   Robot rovers have explored the Moon's surface and sent back photos.

   Rockets carried the crews from Florida.

   Apollo 11 landed two astronauts on the Moon in July of 1969 after a long trip.

2. Nia's report has two headings: "Old Roman Roads" and "Roman Aqueducts." Which note goes under "Roman Aqueducts"?

   Some old roads are still used today.

   Roman roads were paved with stones.

   Aqueducts carried water from hills to cities.

   Soldiers marched on the roads to faraway places.

3. Hugo's report has two headings: "How Rain Forms" and "How Rain Helps." Which note goes under "How Rain Helps"?

   Water vapor rises into the sky and cools into tiny drops.

   Clouds grow heavy as the tiny drops join together.

   Drops fall when they are too heavy to float.

   Rain fills rivers and gives crops the water they need.

4. Ben's report has two headings: "Beam Bridges" and "Arch Bridges." Which note goes under "Arch Bridges"?

   A beam bridge is a flat bar that rests on supports at each end.

   Beam bridges are the simplest kind to build.

   Beam bridges work best over short gaps.

   An arch bridge curves upward and pushes weight to its ends.
