Compare Characters and Settings

Grade 5 Reading Worksheet - Building Confidence

Name _____ Date _____

Circle the answer.

READ THIS FIRST

From Seoul to Jeju

Ji-woo lived on the fifteenth floor of an apartment building in Seoul. From her window, she could see rivers of car lights and towers that glowed all night. Each school morning, she rode the subway with her father. The train was so crowded that she held onto his sleeve instead of a pole. Her neighborhood was full of noise from buses, street vendors and music drifting out of shops.

Every summer, Ji-woo flew south to visit her grandmother on Jeju Island. The flight took only an hour, but Jeju felt like another world. Grandmother's house was one story tall, with a low wall made of black volcanic rock. Tangerine trees grew in rows behind it. At night, Ji-woo could hear the wind and the waves instead of traffic.

In Seoul, Ji-woo's days followed a schedule. School started at eight-thirty. After school came piano lessons and homework. Dinner was often quick, picked up from a small shop near the station.

On Jeju, the days followed the weather. On sunny mornings, Ji-woo helped Grandmother tie up tangerine branches. On windy afternoons, they stayed inside and played cards. When it rained, they walked to the beach to watch gray waves crash on the dark rocks.

In Seoul, Ji-woo had many friends but little time with each of them. On Jeju, she knew only a few children nearby. Still, she spent whole days with them, building towers of smooth black pebbles on the shore.

At the end of each summer, Ji-woo felt two things at once. She missed her friends and her busy city. Yet she knew she would also miss the quiet wind on Jeju. "I have two homes," she told Grandmother. "One is loud, and one is calm."

1. How is Ji-woo's home in Seoul different from Grandmother's home on Jeju?

   Seoul's is a tall apartment; Jeju's is a one-story house.

   Seoul's is a one-story house; Jeju's is a tall apartment.

   Both homes are in tall apartment buildings.

2. What does Ji-woo hear at night on Jeju?

   wind and waves buses and traffic music from shops

3. How do Ji-woo's days in Seoul compare with her days on Jeju?

Seoul days follow the weather; Jeju days follow a schedule.

Seoul days follow a schedule; Jeju days follow the weather.

Days in both places follow a strict schedule.

4. What does Ji-woo do on Jeju when it rains?

She plays cards inside.

She walks to the beach with Grandmother.

She ties up tangerine branches.

5. How are Ji-woo's friendships different in the two places?

No friends in Seoul, but many friends on Jeju

Many friends in Seoul, but more time with friends on Jeju

The same friends in both places all year

6. Which detail shows how crowded the Seoul subway is?

She held her father's sleeve instead of a pole.

Dinner came from a shop near the station.

Towers glowed all night.

Scan to get this marked free. No screen time for your child.
Print it · do it in pencil · scan it · PencilGo picks the next sheet.

Compare Characters and Settings

Answer Key - Grade 5 Reading Worksheet - Building Confidence

Circle the answer.

READ THIS FIRST

From Seoul to Jeju

Ji-woo lived on the fifteenth floor of an apartment building in Seoul. From her window, she could see rivers of car lights and towers that glowed all night. Each school morning, she rode the subway with her father. The train was so crowded that she held onto his sleeve instead of a pole. Her neighborhood was full of noise from buses, street vendors and music drifting out of shops.

Every summer, Ji-woo flew south to visit her grandmother on Jeju Island. The flight took only an hour, but Jeju felt like another world. Grandmother's house was one story tall, with a low wall made of black volcanic rock. Tangerine trees grew in rows behind it. At night, Ji-woo could hear the wind and the waves instead of traffic.

In Seoul, Ji-woo's days followed a schedule. School started at eight-thirty. After school came piano lessons and homework. Dinner was often quick, picked up from a small shop near the station.

On Jeju, the days followed the weather. On sunny mornings, Ji-woo helped Grandmother tie up tangerine branches. On windy afternoons, they stayed inside and played cards. When it rained, they walked to the beach to watch gray waves crash on the dark rocks.

In Seoul, Ji-woo had many friends but little time with each of them. On Jeju, she knew only a few children nearby. Still, she spent whole days with them, building towers of smooth black pebbles on the shore.

At the end of each summer, Ji-woo felt two things at once. She missed her friends and her busy city. Yet she knew she would also miss the quiet wind on Jeju. "I have two homes," she told Grandmother. "One is loud, and one is calm."

1. How is Ji-woo's home in Seoul different from Grandmother's home on Jeju?

   Seoul's is a tall apartment; Jeju's is a one-story house.

   Seoul's is a one-story house; Jeju's is a tall apartment.

   Both homes are in tall apartment buildings.

2. What does Ji-woo hear at night on Jeju?

   wind and waves buses and traffic music from shops

3. How do Ji-woo's days in Seoul compare with her days on Jeju?

Seoul days follow the weather; Jeju days follow a schedule.

Seoul days follow a schedule; Jeju days follow the weather.

Days in both places follow a strict schedule.

4. What does Ji-woo do on Jeju when it rains?

She plays cards inside.

She walks to the beach with Grandmother.

She ties up tangerine branches.

5. How are Ji-woo's friendships different in the two places?

No friends in Seoul, but many friends on Jeju

Many friends in Seoul, but more time with friends on Jeju

The same friends in both places all year

6. Which detail shows how crowded the Seoul subway is?

She held her father's sleeve instead of a pole.

Dinner came from a shop near the station.

Towers glowed all night.